The Nation

By CHARLES MOORE,

Professor in the Princeton Department College, London, England, Organizing Secretary to the Silverthorpe Memorial.

Provisional Correspondence.

PROPOSED SILVERTHORPE MEMORIAL.

To Mr. M. or Mr. T. in New York.

May I be permitted to appeal through your columns to all friends and adherents of the late Professor J. Silverthorpe to lend their united support to the establishment of a memorial fund for the purpose of erecting a statue of the late Professor in some prominent seat of learning, to commemorate his lifetime of devoted service to science and mathematics, and to honor his contributions to the fields of mathematics and physics.

The idea of such a memorial fund has been broached by several individuals, including Mr. M. and Mr. T., who have expressed a strong desire to see a statue of the late Professor erected in a prominent location. The statue would serve as a lasting tribute to his contributions to science and mathematics, and would inspire future generations to pursue careers in these fields.

The proposed memorial fund would be used to purchase the statue and to erect it in a suitable location, such as a public park or a university campus. Contributions from individuals and organizations would be solicited to support the fund, and the statue would be dedicated in a ceremony to be held at a later date.

I urge all friends and adherents of the late Professor to consider supporting this effort. The statue would serve as a fitting tribute to his lifetime of service to science and mathematics, and would inspire future generations to pursue careers in these fields.

Sincerely,
